Two Big Updates At One Great Event

Darlington Hall, HCC's Nursing & Allied Health Center

Dr. Dennis Golladay, President of Harford Community College will update us on Darlington Hall, Harford Community College's New Center for Nursing & Allied Health Professionals. This state of the art building will be the first ever academic and continuing education health care program located in one building. Designed with high-tech classrooms, laboratories, modeling and simulation labs, as well as great gathering places, the building will be a central hub for students pursuing nursing and allied health degrees at the College.

Patricia D. & M. Scott Kaufman Cancer Center

Lyle Sheldon, President & CEO, Upper Chesapeake Health will update us on the newly unveiled Patricia D. and M. Scott Kaufman Cancer Center. The Center's motto "Hope and healing close to home" combined with the nearly $19 million raised locally reflects the community's overwhelming support. The state of the art center will provide multidisciplinary cancer care including medical, surgical and radiation oncology. A partnership with the University of Maryland means patients can take advantage of the Greenebaum Cancer Center in Baltimore too.
